Y DHIREN SHAH
 On Jan. 17, East Orange General Hospital continued its tradition of reaching out to the community organizing an Open Enrollment Day 600,000 in New Jersey." I have heard of instances around the town where people forego enrolling in the new Affordable Health Care Act, you can go window shopping. You can income and where you live. It will give you the plan, more or less you will be middle class, are opposing Obamacare, provisions of the Affordable Care Act in terms of mandated enrollment, triggered by the following tax return. The homeless and unemployed do not file tax returns. We want to make sure we cover all the

we have 202,000; that's an addition to everything in life, the prices go up. Rather than thinking of how to repeal it, they should think of how to make it better. That should be the argument. Unfortunately, that's not the argument. Compared to last year, out of about 900,000 uninsured, about 600,000 are enrolled in our area, except the homeless and unemployed, it is harder to get people to sign up. It will be harder for the companies who are organizing these kinds of community service President Obama is hopeful to sign up all of the uninsured, so more money can be diverted to the health care industry. Still, there is lots of work that needs to be done.
